

"Ichthys"
Rob dAuvergne

Our future demands alternative energy sources and a closer integration of technology and nature. This wind-powered sculpture expresses this through mechanising the generic form and swimming motion of a shark. Materials: fibreglass, polystyrene, stainless steel, industrial bearings and automotive paint.