Move Safely and Responsibly

Moving the Economy

This display is about the power of rail today and in the future. KiwiRail moves large amounts of goods and products by rail for both domestic and export needs. Tonnes of logs, thousands of litres of milk, and thousands of containers of goods are moved by rail and this exhibition container showcases the vital role rail plays in moving New Zealand's economy. Model trains, facts and figures, and video footage of KiwiRail in action will inform every visitor, and the map on the ceiling shows the locations we move goods to and from.

Moving Through the Times

The display is about how the rail network was built and acknowledges the passion of early engineers, railway workers and inspirational leaders. There are locomotives that represent the change in power over 150 years showcasing the evolution of rail. A timeline of significant events in the history of rail is shown on the floor of the container, and iPads allow you to flick through a range of images of the past.
